RUSH OF WORK MAKE NEW OPEN HEARTHS NECESSARY

Pittsburg Steel Gives Orders for New Furnaces

WILL BUILD AT MONESSEN

New Capital Stock is Voted to Secure Funds and to Wipe Out Bonded Debt

Coming as somewhat of a surprise the announcement was made Thursday that the Pittsburg Steel company had given orders for the immediate construction of four new open hearth steel furnaces at Monessen. The new open hearths will be added to the group of eight now operating there, and it is expected that actual construction on the new furnaces will be under way before the end of August.

First announcement was made in the Mail some time last year that the Pittsburg Steel company was going to build new blast furnaces to the Monessen works. This plan was not carried out at once as intended owing it is stated to dull trade and tickle business conditions. The Pittsburg Steel company it is said arranged to make use of its money in another way meanwhile expecting to build later. New capital had been subscribed to the extent of about $8,000,000 for new work at Monessen.

All plants of the Pittsburg Steel company it is stated are working to their fullest capacity at the present time. It has been found absolutely necessary to get more production to supply the demands of the wire and rod mills according to the statement made Thursday. This made a change of plans necessary.

Early in the spring the program of improvements starts on a more extensive basis, for at that time the company will begin the erection of two blast furnaces and for the first time will be making its own pig iron. It will also open its mines and begin shipping ore to the furnaces at Monessen. The entire plant is being more than doubled in capacity.

Not only will the company build with the new capital but it will also wipe out all of its bonded debt. A large force of men will be employed in this new work, which, when completed will mean the steady employment of many more men at the Monessen plant.

DISOBEYS ORDERS AND MEETS DEATH

Foreigner Misunderstands Instructions and His Life is the Result

Because he went where forbidden by the foreman to go for a wheelbarrow load of bricks Jacob Gembro, a Slav of Monessen lost his life at the Pittsburg Steel mill. He was told to get his bricks from one side of a huge pile and warned not to go to the opposite side. Not understanding apparently he went to the wrong place and was caught in the avalanche which was started by his attempt to pull bricks from the pile. His body was crushed to the ground and his skull was fractured. Death occurred in about 20 minutes. His funeral was held today and interment was in the Charleroi cemetery.

CLAIMS HIS WIFE USED VIOLENCE

Charleroi Man in Suit for Divorce States She Struck Him With Chair

According to the facts that are filed in a libel for divorce in the county courts by Joseph Leon Louis against his wife, Ellen Louis, the latter must have been a terror to his life during the past few months.

Louis and his wife were married at McDonald, February 19, 1898, Louis having resided at Noblestown and his wife at Sturgeon. They lived after the marriage at Sturgeon for ten years and then moved to Charleroi.

In the libel filed Louis alleges that his wife treated him cruelly and made life miserable for him. She called him vile names since May, 1910 when their troubles began and since had threatened to kill him. She struck him with sticks, a broom, a baseball bat, chairs and at one time tried to choke him, he states. He alleges that on July 23 of this year she hit him with a chair and also a baseball bat.

Heavy Damages are Claimed Because of a Fractured Ankle

Dr. G. K. Hays, of Monongahela, alleging that he had been injured on a "slide" at Eldora park on June 21 has filed suit against the Eldora Amusement company, owners of Eldora Park for $10,000 damages.

In his statement, filed by his counsel, McIlvaine, Vance and Gibson, he claims that in going down the "slide" he fell, fracturing both bones of his left leg at the ankle joint.

He said he had been under the care of a physician for a length of time and for the injury received from the appliances of the company which he assumed were safe, he is asking for $10,000 damages.

Kohler.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kohler, of Third street died this morning at 5 o'clock. The funeral will be held Saturday at 2 o'clock with services conducted at the home by Rev. J. T. Hackett, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Interment will be in the Charleroi cemetery.

No Fountain Yet.

Mrs. Emma Dawson, president of the W. C. T. U. wishes the Mail to state that A. G. Mitchell, president of the Monongahela division, P. R. R. did not promise that the railroad company would make an opening in their water pipes for the fountain which the W. C. T. U. proposes to place in Charleroi. There was some misunderstanding, she states in regard to the matter.

A pleasant surprise party was tendered in honor of Miss Anna Flynn, at the home of her cousin, Miss Bessie Rigby, 133 McKean avenue, Thursday evening. Twenty-five couples were present from Monessen, Belle Vernon, Monongahela and Charleroi. A delicious lunch was served.

UNION SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC A BIG SUCCESS

Are Arrested for Blackmail

Belle Vernon Men Charged With Attempt to Extort Money From Italian

Charged with blackmailing Vincenzo Mazzi, of Belle Vernon, George Cinnino and Frank Mareto are under arrest. It is alleged by the prosecutor, who is a successful merchant of Belle Vernon, that the two men have written him threatening letters recently. He alleged that they threatened to kill him unless he gave them the $500 they demanded on numerous occasions. They not only threatened to kill him but all of the family. Vincenzo reported the matter to the county officials who advised him to keep his money. He did and the arrest of the alleged pair of blackmailers was the result.

FIREMEN PREPARE

Arrangements About Completed for Convention

MEMORIAL FOR DECEASED

Monongahela people expect to have everything in readiness by Saturday evening for the annual convention of firemen which opens there next week.

The convention proper will open in Turner Hall on Tuesday morning and in the afternoon the memorial services in honor of the deceased members, will be held. R. W. Irwin, Esq., will be the orator of the occasion, while the music will be furnished by local talent. Sessions of the convention will continue on Wednesday and Thursday, and possibly Friday, with intermission to view the various features that will be provided. Wednesday afternoon a motor regatta will take place in which a large number of boats many of them from a distance, will take part. Thursday afternoon the annual parade of the firemen will take place. This feature promises to be greater than any of the preceding parades, to judge from the number of favorable responses already received by the committee. One feature will be the large number of bands that will be in line ten companies already reporting they will have their own musical organization with them.

On Friday the various events in connection with the tournament will take place. Prizes will be given.

All week a carnival company will hold forth on Gregg's field, furnishing amusements and entertainment to the visitors and citizens. Balloon ascensions will be a feature, while parachute jumps will add a thrilling climax to the ascensions.

Henry Lash, one of the substantial farmers of Beallsville was a business caller Thursday.

Large Crowd Attends First Affair of Kind at Eldora

MAY BE ANNUAL EVENT

Idea of Holding Similar Outing Each Year Meets With Favor

With about 2,500 persons at Eldora Park the first union picnic of Charleroi, Speers and Dunlevy Sunday Schools was held on Thursday. Such was the success of the affair that it is intended to institute such an event yearly, in which the entire Charleroi Sunday School district will take part. There was only one thing to mar the enjoyment of the day that being the rain which fell in the afternoon, but even this did not spoil the affair. It only served to bring closer together the members of the Sunday Schools.

Special cars were furnished to transport the children to the park in the morning, leaving Fifth street, Charleroi, Dunlevy and Speers at 9 o'clock and 10 o'clock. The crowds were well handled. Park amusements were called into requisition immediately upon the arrival of the party and the children were furnished a certain number of free rides on the roller coaster and merry-go-round.

After dinner a number of games were enjoyed by the Sunday School folks. At about 2:30 arrangements were made to start the sports.

A program having been arranged by a sports committee. After one race had been run the rain came. It fell in torrents for a while, and people hastened to shelter in the dancing pavilion and under whatever cover they could find. At the dancing pavilion games were arranged and played so that the rain did not interfere to any great extent. Both children and older folks had the time of their lives.

Many came home early before the special cars engaged to transport the people arrived, but a larger number remained until evening. Cornelius Buchanan, the local Pittsburg Railway Company superintendent looked after the transportation in excellent shape. Sunday School teachers and members of the transportation committee saw to it that the children were well taken care of on the cars. There was only one person injured during the day it being Mrs. Taylor of Twilight, who in a fall from the merry-go-round sustained a sprained ankle.

W. S. James, who was chairman of the committee arranging the picnic stated this morning that he thought the plan of a union picnic was a good one. It was he who first suggested the idea.

Fire at Bentleyville.

Fire totally destroyed the home of A. B. Richardson, one of the best known residents of Bentleyville Wednesday night. The fire was of unknown origin and when discovered was burning fiercely. There was no apparatus to fight the flames and all a bucket brigade could do was to prevent the spread of the conflagration. The dwelling was partly insured.

Mrs. Wm. Hickey who has been suffering from an attack of pneumonia is convalescent.

J. K. Tener, Pres. S. A. Walton, Vice Pres. R. H. Rush, Cashier.

HUMBLE GENIUS.

Some of the well-known earmarks of genius are discernible in the doll-making French workman who out of old cans and bottles and umbrella ribs has fashioned an improved system of wireless telegraphy, says the New York World. It was from a discarded surgical syringe that Watt made his model of a condensing engine and Herschel with a tiny home-made telescope discovered the ring and satellites of Saturn. The great American is careless of his tools.

If Naudin's invention meets the tests to which it is to be subjected with a view to its adoption in the French naval service he will rank with other great inventors from the life—with the barber who invented the spinning-jenny, the country engineer who gave the locomotive, with the inventor of the sewing-machine, the electric light and a hundred other indispensable devices of civilization.

The old miracle of genius is repeated almost daily—in the case of the son who becomes a great sculptor, the child of the slums who becomes the great actress, the country curate's sickly boy who wins the command of the seas for his country. The divine spark is often found in the lowly, but why it should be so not all the theories of heredity can explain.

DON'T SUPPRESS THE FEELINGS

It is better, especially if you are a woman, not to suppress your emotions, advises Dr. Samuel McComb of Emmanuel Church, Boston, writing on causes of nervousness in Harper's Bazar. These strangled emotions, these griefs and moral wounds and deep-rooted but frustrated desires of which you never speak even to your dearest, the causes of your headache, your nervous dyspepsia, the irritation to your blood and flesh. Have a heart to heart talk with a dear friend or a trusted adviser, and watch them disappear.

Women, especially, will carry moral wretchedness concealed in their hearts for years, says the writer, with the inevitable result of a nervous catastrophe. Mr. McComb thinks such as these will do well to relieve themselves by confiding their troubles "either to a wise minister of religion or to a psychologically trained physician."

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Candidates are judged by the cigars they give away.

Col. Aster thinks his fiancée is cute. From newspaper cuts we should say that we think so too.

As long as the moving picture playhouses don't boost their prices the country is safe.

Upton Sinclair, author, hadn't any more gotten out of "The Jungle" until he got in the jungle. The jungle last mentioned is the hard hearted law.

The man who always does things is the man who doesn't attempt to do them as he always did.

Come to think of it Charleroi has some O'Toole's. But Pittsburgh hasn't paid $22,500 to get them to play baseball.

Some dogs ought to be muzzled if for no other purpose than to keep their fool owners from kissing them.

It will be sort of disappointing if the Democrats in Congress do not sort of swell up now and tell how they did it.

For the benefit of those persons who think there isn't any such thing as a free lunch, we saw a sandwich yesterday; on Fifth street too.

Why do women outlive men? Oh, just because.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Every community, including Charleroi, believes it has some ball players in its midst who would make good if they had a chance. The opinion of some of the big leaguers along this line may be interesting to local fans, who firmly believe many good players are like the obscure rose, born to "blush unseen and waste their sweetness in the desert air." Here is one of these opinions:

"Many young ball players do not have a chance to prove their worth with the big teams," says Manager Tenney of the Boston Nationals. "They show enough ability in the minors to warrant scouts recommending them for purchase or draft, but when they report for duty they find there is so much competition that they must sit on the bench rather than display their skill. Soon they are turned back to the minors without a trial, and in many cases they become discouraged." These are the very men I want to build up my team. We haven't had a chance to do much scouting, but we are willing to profit by the other clubs' research. I can prove what I say by pointing to Goode and Clark of my team. They have been with other big clubs but have never had a chance to play regularly until now. Constant practice and increased confidence in themselves have developed them into first-class ball players and I would not displace them if I could. Experience is a big factor in the success of youngsters."

R. G. LUTTON FOR SHERIFF

Popular Deputy Makes Announcement for Republican Nomination

R. G. LUTTON.

In this issue we announce the name of R. G. Lutton, at present the deputy sheriff of this county, for the nomination for sheriff on the Republican ticket. The fact that Mr. Lutton has been a candidate for some time and during that time has gathered around him hosts of supporters and well-wishers, adds to strengthen his position at the present. He is not a stranger to the voters of this county. During his incumbency as deputy in the sheriff's office he has had ample opportunity to acquaint himself with a large number of the voters in the county. All who know him know that he possesses the necessary ability to make a success of the sheriff's office and that he is thoroughly conversant with the needs of the taxpayers so far as they would come under the sheriff's observation and attention, and would give full value to those who placed their confidence in him. During his residence in Washington he has served the borough in the capacity of councilman and member of the school board and in both bodies acquitted himself in a creditable manner. He appeals to the Republican voters for their support at the primaries on September 30th, upon his merits. He has no axe to grind, is not a party to fractional strife and aims but to give the people of the county an honest, up-right and conscientious administration of the affairs in the sheriff's office. He is the man of the hour. Vote for Bert Lutton.

The Perpetual Change.
The things of the world are ever rising and falling, and in perpetual change; and this change must be according to the will of God, as he has bestowed upon man neither the wisdom nor the power to enable him to check it. The great lesson in these things is that man must strengthen himself doubly at such times to fulfill his duty, and to do what is right, and must seek his happiness and inward peace from objects which cannot be taken away from him.—Wilhelm von Humboldt.

Deep Mourning.
The manager of the theater racked his brain in vain. "We must do something," he repeated, bitterly. "People will expect us to do something to show respect to the proprietor, now that he is dead." "Shall we close for the night of the funeral?" suggested the assistant stage manager. "With this business? You're a fool, liddle, a fool. No; put the chorus in black stockings." And it was even so.

Looked Easy to Him.
Graydon's father is dead, and the child, hearing other children talk of their fathers, began to importune his mother for "another papa." Mamma tried to explain that she couldn't conveniently grant this wish, at the moment, but Graydon didn't consider any of the suggested reasons adequate. "It ought to be easy enough, mamma, with so many loose men all around!"

No Time for Hesitation.
In transferring the two thousand passengers from the sinking steamer Republic, the greatest difficulty was found in getting the women to leap at the very instant they were told to. If they hesitated an instant a wave carried the boat too far away, and they fell into the water, and had to be fished out. One woman who so fell had a bag of jewels in her hand, which she lost.

The Greatest Social Force.
The middle classes are the preponderant social force of today in republics as well as in monarchies in Europe or in America. Everything is everywhere subordinated to the necessity of satisfying them as speedily and as thoroughly as possible.—Fernero in Paris Figaro.

Louis' Compliment to Conde.
One need not overlook the enormous shortcomings of Louis XIV. as a man and as a king to admit that in some important respects he "tried to do his duty." He was a hardworking sovereign both in the sphere of administration and in that social sphere which was, to his mind, no less important. So courteous that he never passed the poorest woman about the palace without lifting his hat, he carried polite consideration to the level of a fine art. In the way of courteous speech there are few things nobler than his remark to the great Conde as the old hero was slowly ascending the great marble staircase at Versailles. Conde apologized for being so long in mounting the steps, at the top of which the king stood waiting. "Ah, cousin," Louis replied, "one moves slowly when one is laden with laurels."

Objected to the Publicity.
Man's instinctive and perfectly reasonable preference for reprimand delivered in private is illustrated by a story told by Lieutenant General Sir William Butler, G. C. B., in his "Autobiography." A general commanding at Aldershot had been forcibly reprimanded by a royal commander in chief. He openly rebelled. "I don't mind being called a fool," he said, "if it pleases your royal highness to call me so, but I do mind being called a fool before your royal highness' other fools," sweeping his hand toward the commander in chief's large and brilliant staff.

Sympathetic.
"By ginger!" roared Blithers wrathfully when his son informed him that he had flunked at college. "I'm blest if I know what to say. I—"
"I sympathize with you, dad," said Blithers, Jr., feelingly. "That's just the way it was with me when they asked me those blasted questions at examination!"—Harper's Weekly.

Wanted His Money's Worth.
Customer—I say, Mr. Barber, I don't hear your scissors at work on my hair. Barber (apologetically)—There is very little hair on your head, sir. Customer—That makes no difference. I pay my money and I want you to rattle the scissors on the bald place just the same as if I had hair on it.

He Was Cured.
A chap once consulted a famous physician about his dyspepsia. The patient was very deaf. The dialogue between the physician and he ran like this:

"What do you usually breakfast on?"
"Oh, no! At least two miles in the morning and a motor ride after lunch."
"How many hours do you sleep?"
"Well, doctor, I was fifty-nine my last birthday."
"Are you married?"
"Thirst."
With a gesture of impatience, the physician turned and wrote out a simple remedy for dyspepsia. The patient, as he departed, shouted in the loud, harsh tones of the very deaf: "Doctor, can you cure deafness?"
The other shook his head in the negative.
"Well," said the patient, "you've been very kind, and therefore I'm going to make you a present of this prescription." He took a folded paper from his pocket. "It cured me."—New York Tribune.

His Idea of the Show.
"What do you think of the plot?" asked the theater manager.
"That isn't a plot," replied the man who had paid $2 to see the show. "That's a conspiracy."—Washington Star.

Made It Warm.
"I got a cold supper when I went home tonight, and you bet I kicked about it."
"Did that do any good?"
"Well, my wife made it warm for me."

Do not take upon yourself a load of hatred. It is a heavier load than you think.—Mme de Sennece.

First Actress—You say you are hard up. Isn't your husband playing this season, then? Second Actress—Yes, he is. That's just the trouble. First A.—Why, what's he playing—Hamlet? Second A.—No, cards!

The Other Extreme.
Parke—Poor Pitter! His wife is a spendthrift. Is there anything worse, I wonder, than a wife that's too extravagant? Tame—Oh, yes; one that's too economical.—Brooklyn Life.

OWES HER HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up and make them strong and well. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has always helped her.

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to these wonderful medicines."

—Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R.F.D. 3.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases.

Modern Maps.
There are Egyptian maps dating from 1400 B. C., but in spite of this long history it has been astonishingly difficult to make progress in charts until very recent times. Errors are perpetuated; truth is forgotten; advance is slow. As late as 1900 charts of the Alaskan coast issued by the United States were said to be thirty miles wrong, and nearly all commercial map makers still represent mountain chains as caterpillars, and the fringe of the shore is adorned with a blue wavy frill. As for railroad maps, the less said the better, the great railroad map of the northern belt of the United States adorning the walls of the Broad street Pennsylvania station in Philadelphia being distorted east and west, north and south and otherwise. Its accuracy in large part not being over 30 per cent, yet it is a more than usually good railroad map.—Engineering Magazine.

The Last Gladiators.
It was in A. D. 430 that the edict was passed which forever abolished the gladiatorial combats. In the deserts of Lybia there lived a monk named Telemachus, who, touched by the cruel stories of the combats, went to Rome, leaped over the barrier of the arena of the Coliseum, threw himself between the groups of fighters and implored them in the name of Christ to desist. Telemachus fell, slain by the swords of the gladiators, but there never was another fight in the Coliseum. The spirit of the monk had its effect, and the above mentioned edict was soon passed.

Cruikshank's Fagin.
During the time Cruikshank was illustrating "Oliver Twist" he spent days traversing the east end of London in search of a face that would correspond with his conception of the character of Fagin. One day while standing before a mirror in his dining room "pulling faces at himself," so to speak, for the want of something better to do, he accidentally made the features for which he was looking. The picture, therefore, of Fagin is really that of Cruikshank himself.

Just Like Eggs.
Miss A.—So your wife keeps you continually in hot water, you poor man. Mr. B.—Oh, that's all right. We husbands are like eggs. Keep us in hot water and we become hardened.—Boston Transcript.

A Long Run.
Property Man—Did your company have a long run in Speedunk? Comedian—They chased us only two miles out.—Chicago News.

Her Ideal.
"What is your ideal man?"
"One who is clever enough to make money and foolish enough to spend it."—Variety Life.

Honesty needs no pains to set itself off.—Edward Moore.

This bit of humor which is from the Hawaiian Star: "An amusing incident is related of a young service matron who had relinquished her husband for two years and who, having before his departure insisted on a good photograph, applied herself assiduously to the upbringing of her two-year-old baby with a view to the child's familiarity with her distant father. Each day she would call the baby girl to her and, kneeling beside her, would hold up the photograph, pointing out each feature to the child.

"One day the officer came home, and the baby girl, then four years old, was summoned. 'Come dear,' said her mother in glee, 'papa has come home at last!' The child surveyed the officer in perplexity and finally shook her head.

"What is the matter, dear?" asked her mother. 'Well,' replied the child, he looks something like my papa, but my papa hasn't any legs!"

Humor of the Barometer.
It was a beautiful barometer. It glistened from its splendid wooden case with a spick and spanness that boasted of its newness. Its rich framework clearly advertised the large price that had been paid for it. Its owner was justly proud. But it possessed one drawback—it wouldn't work. Ever since it had been purchased it had remained at "set fair" whatever the weather had happened to be. And the weather had happened to be particularly wet. At last its owner grew weary of its external beauty and exasperated over its internal stupidity. One day when the rain was pouring extra hard he tore the weather indicator from the wall and took it out into the road.

For a moment the needle hesitated. Then as the raindrops began to dim the glass it made up its mind and moved slowly round to "very dry."—London Answers.

An Innocent Victim.
General F. D. Grant, at a dinner at West Point, once analyzed the military genius of Washington.

"Washington," he said, "gave us our independence by campaigning faultlessly. He never made mistakes. There have been more brilliant soldiers than Washington, but there has never been so sure a one. In warfare, you must know, the smallest mistake may lose a whole battle, a whole campaign, a whole cause. And that reminds me of poor Tom White.

"Tom White failed in business owing to the mistake of one single letter made by his stenographer. Tom's patron in business was a deaf millionaire who was very touchy about his deafness. This millionaire turned from a good friend to a bitter enemy—he foreclosed on Tom—because the unhappy fellow's stenographer accidentally began a letter to him 'Deaf Sir.'"

A Gilded Gown.
During the reign of King George I. Lord Hervey, a cultured man, gave this description of the fine dress of a distinguished woman:

"The Duchess of Queensberry's clothes pleased me most. They were white satin embroidered, the bottom of the petticoat brown hills, covered with all sorts of weeds, and every breadth had an old stump of a tree than ran up almost to the top of the petticoat, broken and ragged and worked with brown chenille, round which twined nasturtiums, ivy, honeysuckles, periwinkles, convolvuluses and all sorts of twining vines, which spread and covered the petticoat. Many of the leaves were finished in gold, and part of the stumps of the trees looked like the gilding of the sun."

Grown Cautious.
Chatty Lodger (to landlord) — You seem to have seen a good deal. What are you? Landlord—Well, sir, I was a lion tamer, and I'd be there now if I hadn't a married; but, you see, my wife were a knife thrower in the same show, and she got to practicing her turn on me. Well, thinks I, life ain't too long to run no risks, so I took on a safe job and become a steeplejack.—London Punch.

A Word to Be Avoided.
Wife—Well, did you find out what it was I said that offended Mrs. Youngbride? Hub—Yes, her husband told me. It seems that you remarked, "I see you're installed in your new home," and as they're furnished on the installment plan she thought you were trying to be funny at their expense.—Boston Transcript.

Quite a Help.
"Is your boy Josh much of a help to you?"
"Yes," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "He is making a collection of insects. Of course he don't catch as many as he could if he wouldn't stop to label 'em, but, then, you know, every little helps."—Washington Star.

Anecdotes.
"What is an anecdote, pa?"
"An anecdote, my son, is a short and funny tale which at once reminds the other fellow of a tale which is neither short nor funny."—Puck.

A Choice of Words.
"You sold me that horse as free from faults. Why, it's blind."
"Blind? Well, that's not a fault; that's a cruel misfortune."

He Heard Her.
"My daughter's piano lessons have been a great expense to me."
"That so? Did some neighbor sue you?"

If you live by nature you will never be poor; if by opinion, never rich.—Epictetus.

The Way of a Woman.
"She passed me on the street yesterday without speaking."
"She did?"
"Yes, she stuck up things."
"I wouldn't say that. Perhaps she didn't mean to snub you."
"Of course she meant to snub me. You see, I had on my old hat."
"That wouldn't make any difference to her."
"Oh, wouldn't it? Once before when I happened to have on an old dress she didn't speak to me, either. Now I'm through with her. If she doesn't care enough for me to speak when I'm in my old clothes she needn't speak at all. I won't speak to her when I'm dressed up. That's all there is to it."
"Did you speak to her?"
"I should say not. It's her place to speak first. Do you suppose I'm going to attract attention by yelling my lungs out for the like of her? I guess not."
"Perhaps she didn't see you."
"See me? Of course she did. I saw her, didn't I? Then why didn't she see me?"—Detroit Free Press.

TONIGHT'S GAME THE LAST IN THE CHURCH LEAGUE

With tonight's struggle between the Baptists and the Catholics the church league season will end after one of the most successful seasons enjoyed during three years it has run. The Charleroi Church league is now attracting considerable attention, and copies of it are being formed in many towns. It is by far more successful than organized professional ball could be in towns much larger than Charleroi. It is largely owing to the excellent backing that the Church league has that enables it to be the success it is. The Executive board is composed of leaders. It consists of Dr. Edwin McKay, John Cornell, W. D. Pollock, R. A. Roberts, D. C. Whitlatch, Prof. I. T. Daniel, Dennis Oates, and Joseph W. Stech. Paul Ryland is the secretary.

The Lutherans and the Liggett A. C. of Monongahela will meet in conflict at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Prof. I. T. Daniel will have the batting and fielding averages of the two teams not yet published ready in a day or two. They are only for July. The entire season's averages will be ready later.

Alex Sutherland, the young pitcher who lives back of Coal Centre and who has been making such a phenomenal record for Washington in the A. and W. league has been told to report at Wheeling in the Central League. He will leave in a day or two.

The pennant race in the National league this year is more exciting than it has been for years.

Getz, the McKeesport third baseman who was tried out by Boston is playing third for an American Association club.

Tony James, formerly of Washington, the big man behind the bat for Columbus, in the American Association is playing a strong game.

Bill Phillips' Youngstown team is hard pressing the Akron champs for leading position in the O. and P. league.

DIGGER STANLEY WINS HARD FIGHT

At a Philadelphia club Thursday Digger Stanley of Charleroi defeated Johnny Willets, the lightweight, in the roughest six-round bout seen there for some time. In the final round Stanley twice put his man to the floor, the gong saving Willets from being knocked out.

Growth of Atlantic City.
Atlantic City was incorporated in 1854, the year when the first passenger train was run from the Delaware river to the Atlantic ocean. At that time the village consisted of half a dozen families which had increased to a population of 1,043, in 1870, according to the United States census. Ten years later it had grown to 5,477; in 1890 it was 13,055, and in 1900 there were 27,000.

Big Shark on His Line.
An immense shark measuring 7 feet ten inches and weighing over 500 pounds, was caught by Fred Parke a Redondo Beach (Cal.) fisherman, while trolling for barracuda several miles out from shore. Parker noted the shark follow him for some time, for some time and threw out a line for it. The shark took the bait, and a battle lasting nearly two hours followed.

The Fatal Ring.
An amazing story is told by the late head of the Paris morgue. Five times within his experience dead bodies brought to the morgue were found to be wearing a certain ring easily distinguishable by its strange design. It bore in Eastern characters this legend: "May whosoever wears this ring die a miserable death." M. Macé, late chief of the Paris police, vouches for the truth of this.

The Sense of Smell.
"It is the upper part of the nose that smells," said a perfumer. "The lining there is very sensitive and brown in color, not red, as in the lower nose. Men are more sensitive to odors than women. Scientific tests have shown, I believe, that, while many men can detect the smell of prussic acid even when there is only one part of the acid to two million parts of water, the average woman fails to detect the smell if there are less than ten parts of the acid. Though the white man is much less sensitive to odors than the savage, a prolonged stay in a part of the world where smells are few puts a very fine edge on the sense of smell. Dr. Nansen has declared that when returning from the ice world to Franz Josef Land he knew when he was approaching the assistant he had left there by smelling his scented soap long before he saw him. He could, too, when approaching the hut have given an inventory of the stores there, as he smelled everything it contained separately and distinctly."

Ruled His Servants by Fines.
Sir Richard Newdigate, a seventeenth century Warwickshire squire, whose papers were published some years ago by one of his descendants, ruled his servants by a system of fines. The value at which he rated domestic crimes is shown by such entries in his diary as: "Nan Newton, for breaking a teapot, 2s. 6d.; Richard Knight, for pride and slighting, 2s. 6d.; William Hetherington, for not being ready to go to church three Sundays, 18 pence; Thomas Birdall, for being at Nunenton from morning till night, 5 shillings; cook, dead drunk, 10 shillings." As his cook's wages were only £8 a year she paid pretty dearly for her lapse from sobriety. Sir Richard had a system of rewards as well as penalties. "To my three daughters," he writes, "because they came to prayers, 3 shillings," and "to Tom Cooper, who worked hard after he broke his head, 2s. 6d."

Origin of Foxe's "Book of Martyrs."
Foxe's "Book of Martyrs" was published in March, 1563, as the "Actes and Monuments" of the martyrs, a title borrowed from an earlier book, says the London Chronicle. The famous volume might never have appeared at all but for the association of Foxe with the printer Day of Aldersgate street. In whose business Foxe took an active part. On the tombstone of Day in the church of Little Bradley, Suffolk, the partnership is thus immortalized:

He et a Fox to wright how martyrs runne
By death to lyfe; Fox ventured paynes
and health
To give them light; Daye spent in print
his wealth.

Even in those days the alien problem troubled industry, for we find Foxe appealing to Cecil to relax the law and permit his friend Day to engage more than four foreign printers.

Iron in Plants.
Iron is the substance which gives the green appearance to foliage. It forms a constituent part of chlorophyll and is the green coloring matter which stains the bodies inside the cells of leaves, called plastids. When the first organized food is being formed in the leaves from water and carbonic acid gas a certain amount of energy is required. This is obtained from the sun's rays, but the work of absorbing it is carried out by the chlorophyll. It requires very little iron for the production of all the chlorophyll found in a crop, and nearly all soils contain an abundant supply.

The Human Clock.
The Spanish painter Ribera, Mr. Hal-dane Macfall recalls in his "History of Painting," worked with such fervor that all count of time was lost to him. "He made a living clock to check the passing hours. His servant came every hour to the studio to say in a loud and stately voice, 'Another hour has gone, Signor Cavaliere!'"

He Won.
"Before you kiss me, Horace, let me tell you that Fred has given Kitty a diamond ring. You have never given me one."

"Dearest, it is only girls who are not precious in themselves who require the aid of precious stones."

"Oh, you may kiss me twice, Horace."

Pen and Sword.
"Do you believe the pen is mightier than the sword?"
"Of course it is. Who ever had to pay $25,000 damages in a breach of promise case on account of the sword he carried?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Isle of Life.
We shall meet each morning as from foreign countries and, spending the day together, should depart at night to foreign countries. In all this we would have the island of a man, inviolate.—Emerson.

The Irony of Fate.
"Speaking of the irony of fate?"
"Well?"
"I know an artist who earns money to pay his divorced wife alimony by drawing Cupids."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

One Was Enough.
Milton was one day asked by a friend whether he would instruct his daughters in the different languages.
"No, sir," he said; "one tongue is sufficient for any woman."

She Knew.
"But do you think I could deceive my own little wife?"
"No, I know you could not, but I believe you are silly enough to try."

A Great Difference.
In a spread-eagle speech on the immortality of the soul, an orator exclaimed: "I looked at the mountains, and could not help thinking, 'Beautiful as you are, you will some day be destroyed, while my soul will not.' Then I gazed upon the ocean, and cried out, 'Mighty as you are, you will some day dry up, but I never will!'"

USH OF WORK MAKE NEW OPEN HEARTHS NECESSARY

Pittsburg Steel Gives Orders for New Furnaces

LL BUILD AT MONESSEN

Capital Stock is Voted Secure Funds and to Wipe Out Bonded Debt

Coming as somewhat of a surprise announcement was made that the Pittsburg Steel company had given orders for the immediate construction of four new blast hearth steel furnaces at Mon-essen. The new open hearths will be used to the group of eight now operating there, and it is expected that the construction of the new furnaces will be under way before the first of August.

Some time last year that the Pittsburg Steel company was going to build new blast furnaces to the Pittsburgh Steel company. This plan was noted out at once as intended oversight. It is stated to dull trade and business conditions. The Pittsburg Steel company it is said arrange to make use of its money in another way meanwhile expecting to do later. New capital had been scribed to the extent of about $100,000 for new work at Mon-essen. The plants of the Pittsburg Steel company it is stated are working to their fullest capacity at the present time. It has been found absolutely necessary to get more production to supply demands of the wire and rod mills operating to the statement made yesterday. This made a change of plan necessary.

Early in the spring the program of movements starts on a more extensive basis, for at that time the company will begin the erection of blast furnaces and for the first time will be making its own pig iron.
The plant also open its mines and begin shipping ore to the furnaces at Mon-essen. The entire plant is being more than doubled in capacity.

Not only will the company build the new capital but it will also wipe out all of its bonded debt. A force of men will be employed in new work, which, when completed will mean the steady employment of many more men at the Pittsburgh plant.

DISOBEYS ORDERS AND MEETS DEATH

Foreigner Misunderstands
Instructions and His Life is the Result

Because he went where forbidden
by the foreman to go for a wheelbarrow load of bricks Jacob Gembro, a Slav of Monessen lost his life at the Pittsburgh Steel mill. He was told to get his bricks from one side of a high pile and warned not to go to the opposite side. Not understanding apparently he went to the wrong place and was caught in the avalanche which was started by his attempt to pull bricks from the pile. His body was crushed to the ground and his skull was fractured. Death occurred in about 20 minutes. His funeral was held today and interment was in the Charleroi cemetery.

CLAIMS HIS WIFE USED VIOLENCE

Charleroi Man in Suit for Divorce States She Struck Him With Chair

According to the facts that are filed in a libel for divorce in the county courts by Joseph Leon Louis against his wife, Ellen Louis, the latter must have been a terror to his life during the past few months.

Louis and his wife were married at McDonald, February 19, 1898, Louis having resided at Noblestown and his wife at Sturgeon. They lived after the marriage at Sturgeon for ten years and then moved to Charleroi.

In the libel filed Louis alleges that his wife treated him cruelly and made life miserable for him. She called him vile names since May, 1910 when their troubles began and since had threatened to kill him. She struck him with sticks, a broom, a baseball bat, chairs and at one time tried to choke him, he states. He alleges that on July 23 of this year she hit him with a chair and also a baseball bat.

Heavy Damages are Claimed Because of a Fractured Ankle

Dr. G. K. Hays, of Monongahela, alleging that he had been injured on a "slide" at Eldora park on June 21 has filed suit against the Eldora Amusement company, owners of Eldora Park for $10,000 damages.
In his statement, filed by his counsel, McIlwaine, Vance and Gibson, he claims that in going down the "slide" he fell, fracturing both bones of his left leg at the ankle joint.
He said he had been under the care of a physician for a length of time and for the injury received from the appliances of the company which he assumed were safe, he is asking for $10,000 damages.

Kohler.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs.
Harry Kohler, of Third street died this morning at 5 o'clock. The funeral will be held Saturday at 2 o'clock with services conducted at the home by Rev. J. T. Hackett, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. Interment will be in the Charleroi cemetery.

No Fountain Yet.

Mrs. Emma Dawson, president of the W. C. T. U. wishes the Mail to state that A. G. Mitchell, president of the Monongahela division, P. R. R.
did not promise that the railroad company would make an opening in their water pipes for the fountain which the W. C. T. U. proposes to place in Charleroi. There was some misunderstanding, she states in regard to the matter.

A pleasant surprise party was tendered in honor of Miss Anna Flynn, at the home of her cousin, Miss Bessie Rigby, 133 McKean avenue, Thursday evening. Twenty-five couples were present from Monessen, Belle Vernon, Monongahela and Charleroi.
A delicious lunch was served.

UNION SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC A BIG SUCCESS

Belle Vernon Men Charged
With Attempt to Extort
Money From Italian

Charged with blackmailing Vincen-zo Mazzi, of Belle Vernon, George Cinnino and Frank Maletto are under arrest. It is alleged by the prosecutor, who is a successful merchant of Belle Vernon, that the two men have written him threatening letters recently. He alleged that they threatened to kill him unless he gave them the $500 they demanded on numerous occasions. They not only threatened to kill him but all of the family.
Vincenzo reported the matter to the county officials who advised him to keep his money. He did and the arrest of the alleged pair of blackmailers was the result.

FIREMEN PREPARE

Arrangements About
Completed for Convention

MEMORIAL FOR DECEASED

Monongahela people expect to have everything in readiness by Saturday evening for the annual convention of firemen which opens there next week.

The convention proper will open in Turner Hall on Tuesday morning and in the afternoon the memorial services in honor of the deceased members will be held. R. W. Irwin, Esq., will be the orator of the occasion, while the music will be furnished by local talent. Sessions of the convention will continue on Wednesday and Thursday, and possibly Friday, with intermission to view the various features that will be provided. Wednesday afternoon a motor regatta will take place in which a large number of boats many of them from a distance, will take part. Thursday afternoon the annual parade of the firemen will take place.
This feature promises to be greater than any of the preceding parades, to judge from the number of favorable responses already received by the committee. One feature will be the large number of bands that will be in line ten companies already reporting they will have their own musical organization with them.

On Friday the various events in connection with the tournament will take place. Prizes will be given.

All week a carnival company will hold forth on Gregg's Field, furnishing amusements and entertainment to the visitors and citizens. Balloon ascensions will be a feature, while parachute jumps will add a thrilling climax to the ascensions.

tial farmers of Beallsville was a business caller Thursday.

MAY BE ANNUAL EVENT

Idea of Holding Similar Outing Each Year Meets
With Favor

With about 2,500 persons at El-dora Park the first union picnic of Charleroi, Speers and Dunlevy Sunday Schools was held on Thursday.
Such was the success of the affair that it is intended to institute such an event yearly in which the entire Charleroi Sunday School district will take part. There was only one thing to mar the enjoyment of the day that being the rain which fell in the afternoon, but even this did not spoil the affair. It only served to bring closer together the members of the Sunday Schools.

Special cars were furnished to transport the children to the park in the morning, leaving Fifth street, Charleroi, Dunlevy and Speers at 9 o'clock and 10 o'clock. The crowds were well handled. Park amusements were called into requisition immediately upon the arrival of the party and the children were furnished a certain number of free rides on the roller coaster and merry-go-round.

After dinner a number of games were enjoyed by the Sunday School folks. At about 2:30 arrangements were made to start the sports, a program having been arranged by a sports committee. After one race had been run the rain came. It fell in torrents for a while, and people hastened to shelter in the dancing pavilion and under whatever cover they could find. At the dancing pavilion games were arranged and played so that the rain did not interfere to any great extent. Both children and older folks had the time of their lives.

Many came home early before the special cars engaged to transport the people arrived, but a larger number remained until evening. Cornelius Buchanan, the local Pittsburg Railways Company superintendent looked after the transportation in excellent shape. Sunday School teachers and members of the transportation committee saw to it that the children were well taken care of on the cars. There was only one person injured during the day it being Mrs.
Taylor of Twilight, who in a fall from the merry-go-round sustained a sprained ankle.

W. S. James, who was chairman of the committee arranging the picnic stated this morning that he thought the plan of a union picnic was a good one. It was he who first suggested the idea.

Fire at Bentleyville.

Fire totally destroyed the home of A. B. Richardson, one of the best known residents of Bentleyville Wednesday night. The fire was of unknown origin and when discovered was burning fiercely. There was no apparatus to fight the flames and all a bucket brigade could do was to prevent the spread of the conflagration.
The dwelling was partly insured.

Mrs. Wm. Hickey who has been suffering from an attack of pneumonia is convalescent.

HUMBLE GENIUS.

Some of the well-known earmarks of genius are discernable in the doll-making French workman who out of calico cans and bottles and umbrella ribs has fashioned an improved system of wireless telegraphy, says the New York World. It was from a discarded surgical syringe that Watt made his model of a condensing engine and Herschel with a tiny home-made telescope discovered the ringed satellites of Saturn. The great workman is careless of his tools.

Naudin's invention meets the tests to which it is to be subjected with a view to its adoption in the French naval service he will rank with other great inventors from Leonardo life—with the barber who invented the spinning-jenny, the coal-burner who gave the world the locomotive, with the inventor of the sewing-machine, the electric light and the hundred other indispensable devices of civilization.

The old miracle of genius is repeated almost daily—in the case of the child's son who becomes a great sculptor, the child of the slums who becomes the great actress, the country curate's sickly boy who wins the command of the seas for his country. The divine spark is oftenest found in the lowly, but why it should be so not all the theories of heredity can explain.

DON'T SUPPRESS THE FEELINGS

It is better, especially if you are a woman, not to suppress your emotions, advises Dr. Samuel McComb of Emmanuel Church, Boston, writing on causes of nervousness in Harper's Bazar. These strangled emotions, these griefs and moral wounds and deep-rooted but frustrated desires of which you never speak even to your dearest, the causes of your headache, your nervous dyspepsia, the irritation of your blood and flesh. Have a heart to heart talk with a dear friend or a trusted adviser and watch them disappear.

Women, especially, will carry moral wretchedness concealed in their hearts for years, says the writer,

with the inevitable result of a nervous catastrophe. Mr. McComb thinks such as these will do well to relieve themselves by confiding their troubles "either to a wise minister of religion or to a psychologically trained physician."

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Candidates are judged by the cigars they give away.

Col. Aster thinks his fiancée is cute. From newspaper cuts we should say that we think so too.

As long as the moving picture playhouses don't boost their prices the country is safe.

Upton Sinclair, author, hadn't any more gotten out of "The Jungle" until he got in the jungle. The jungle last mentioned is the hard hearted law.

Even railroad officials high up seem really human.

Farming by scientific methods doesn't mean finding the most germs possible out of a hay crop.

The man who always does things is the man who doesn't attempt to do them as he always did.

Come to think of it Charleroi has some O'Tooles. But Pittsburgh hasn't paid $22,500 to get them to play baseball.

Some dogs ought to be muzzled if for no other purpose than to keep their fool owners from kissing them.

It will be sort of disappointing if the Democrats in Congress do not sort of swell up now and tell how they did it.

For the benefit of those persons who think there isn't any such thing we will state that we saw a sandwash yesterday; on Fifth street too.

Why do women outlive men? Oh, just because.

A chair was blown from the roof of the Forbes Field grandstand and hit a man below. A roof's a bum place to keep a chair anyhow.

By the way will somebody tell us who finances these Glidden tours.

This seems to be a hard season on monarchs.

The most zealous reformers never think of reforming matters at home.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Every community, including Charleroi, believes it has some ball players in its midst who would make good if they had a chance. The opinion of some of the big leaguers along this line may be interesting to local fans, who firmly believe many good players are, like the obscure rose, born to "blush unseen and waste their sweetness in the desert air." Here is one of these opinions:

"Many young ball players do not have a chance to prove their worth with the big teams," says Manager Tenney of the Boston Nationals. "They show enough ability in the minors to warrant scouts recommending them for purchase or draft, but when they report for duty they find there is so much competition that they must sit on the bench rather than display their skill. Soon they are turned back to the minors without a trial, and in many cases they become discouraged. Those are the very men I want to build up my team. We haven't had a chance to do much scouting, but we are willing to profit by the other clubs' research. I can prove what I say by pointing to Goode and Clark of my team. They have been with other big clubs but have never had a chance to play regularly until now. Constant practice and increased confidence in themselves have developed them into first-class ball players and I would not displace them if I could. Experience is a big factor in the success of youngsters."

R. G. LUTTON FOR SHERIFF

Popular Deputy Makes Announcement for Republican Nomination

R. G. LUTTON.

In this issue we announce the name of R. G. Lutton, at present the deputy sheriff of this county, for the nomination for sheriff on the Republican ticket. The fact that Mr. Lutton has been a candidate for some time and during that time has gathered around him hosts of supporters and well-wishers, adds to strengthen his position at the present. He is not a stranger to the voters of this county. During his incumbency as deputy in the sheriff's office he has had ample opportunity to acquaint himself with a large number of the voters in the county. All who know him know that he possesses the necessary ability to make a success of the sheriff's office and that he is thoroughly conversant with the needs of the taxpayers so far as they would come under the sheriff's observation and attention, and would give full value to those who placed their confidence in him. During his residence in Washington he has served the borough in the capacity of councilman and member of the school board and in both bodies acquitted himself in a creditable manner. He appeals to the Republican voters for their support at the primaries on September 30th, upon his merits. He has no axe to grind, is not a party to fractional strife and aims but to give the people of the county an honest, up-right and conscientious administration of the affairs in the sheriff's office. He is the man of the hour. Vote for Bert Lutton.

The Perpetual Change.

The things of the world are ever rising and falling, and in perpetual change; and this change must be according to the will of God, as he has bestowed upon man neither the wisdom nor the power to enable him to check it. The great lesson in these things is that man must strengthen himself doubly at such times to fulfill his duty, and to do what is right, and must seek his happiness and inward peace from objects which cannot be taken away from him.—Wilhelm von Humboldt.

Deep Mourning.

The manager of the theater racked his brain in vain. "We must do something," he repeated, bitterly. "People will expect us to do something to show respect to the proprietor, now that he is dead." "Shall we close for the night of the funeral?" suggested the assistant stage manager. "With this business? You're a fool, laddie, a fool. No; put the chorus in black stockings." And it was even so.

Looked Easy to Him.

Graydon's father is dead, and the child, hearing other children talk of their fathers, began to importune his mother for "another papa." Mamma tried to explain that she couldn't conveniently grant this wish, at the moment, but Graydon didn't consider any of the suggested reasons adequate. "It ought to be easy enough, mamma, with so many loose men all around!"

No Time for Hesitation.

In transferring the two thousand passengers from the sinking steamer Republic, the greatest difficulty was found in getting the women to leap at the very instant they were told to. If they hesitated an instant a wave carried the boat too far away, and they fell into the water, and had to be fished out. One woman who so fell had a bag of jewels in her hand, which she lost.

The Greatest Social Force.

The middle classes are the preponderant social force of today in republics as well as in monarchies in Europe or in America. Everything is everywhere subordinated to the necessity of satisfying them as speedily and as thoroughly as possible.—Pereire in Paris Figaro.

Louis' Compliment to Conde.
One need not overlook the enormous shortcomings of Louis XIV. as a man and as a king to admit that in some important respects he "tried to do his duty." He was a hardworking sovereign both in the sphere of administration and in that social sphere which was, to his mind, no less important. So courteous that he never passed the poorest woman about the palace without lifting his hat, he carried polite consideration to the level of a fine art. In the way of courteous speech there are few things nobler than his remark to the great Conde as the old hero was slowly ascending the great marble staircase at Versailles. Conde apologized for being so long in mounting the steps, at the top of which the king stood waiting. "Ah, cousin," Louis replied, "one moves slowly when one is laden with laurels."

Objected to the Publicity.
Man's instinctive and perfectly reasonable preference for reprimand delivered in private is illustrated by a story told by Lieutenant General Sir William Butler, G. C. B., in his "Autobiography."
A general commanding at Aldershot had been forcibly reprimanded by a royal commander in chief. He openly rebelled.
"I don't mind being called a fool," he said, "if it pleases your royal highness to call me so, but I do mind being called a fool before your royal highness's other fools," sweeping his hand toward the commander in chief's large and brilliant staff.

Sympathetic.
"By ginger!" roared Blithers wrathfully when his son informed him that he had flunked at college. "I'm blest if I know what to say. I—"
"I sympathize with you, dad," said Blithers, Jr., feelingly. "That's just the way it was with me when they asked me those blasted questions at examination!"—Harper's Weekly.

Wanted His Money's Worth.
Customer—I say, Mr. Barber, I don't bear your scissors at work on my hair. Barber (apologetically)—There is very little hair on your head, sir. Customer—That makes no difference. I pay my money and I want you to rattle the scissors on the bald place just the same as if I had hair on it.

He Was Cured.
A chap once consulted a famous physician about his dyspepsia. The patient was very deaf. The dialogue between the physician and he ran like this:
"What do you usually breakfast on?"
"Oh, no. At least two miles in the morning and a motor ride after lunch."
"How many hours do you sleep?"
"Well, doctor, I was fifty-nine my last birthday."

"Are you married?"
"Thirst."

With a gesture of impatience, the physician turned and wrote out a simple remedy for dyspepsia. The patient, as he departed, shouted in the loud, harsh tones of the very deaf:
"Doctor, can you cure deafness?"
The other shook his head in the negative.
"Well," said the patient, "you've been very kind, and therefore I'm going to make you a present of this prescription." He took a folded paper from his pocket. "It cured me."—New York Tribune.

His Idea of the Show.
"What do you think of the plot?" asked the theater manager.
"That isn't a plot," replied the man who had paid $2 to see the show. "That's a conspiracy."—Washington Star.

Made It Warm.
"I got a cold supper when I went home tonight and you bet I kicked about it."
"Did that do any good?"
"Well, my wife made it warm for me."

Do not take upon yourself a load of hatred. It is a heavier load than you think.—Mme. de Sevigne.

OWES HER HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house."

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up and make them strong and well. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a painful period and irregularity, and it has always helped her."

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies. I tell every one I meet that I owe my health and happiness to these wonderful medicines."
—Mrs. J. G. Johnson, Scottville, Mich., R.F.D. 3.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases.

Modern Maps.
There are Egyptian maps dating from 1400 B. C., but in spite of this long history it has been astonishingly difficult to make progress in charts until very recent times. Errors are perpetuated; truth is forgotten; advance is slow. As late as 1900 charts of the Alaskan coast issued by the United States were said to be thirty miles wrong, and nearly all commercial map makers still represent mountain chains as caterpillars, and the fringe of the shore is adorned with a blue wavy frill. As for railroad maps, the less said the better, the great railroad map of the northern belt of the United States adorning the walls of the Broad street Pennsylvania station in Philadelphia being distorted east and west, north and south and otherwise. Its accuracy in large part not being over 30 per cent, yet it is a more than usually good railroad map.—Engineering Magazine.

The Last Gladiators.
It was in A. D. 430 that the edict was passed which forever abolished the gladiatorial combats. In the deserts of Libya there lived a monk named Telemachus, who, touched by the cruel stories of the combats, went to Rome, leaped over the barrier of the arena of the Coliseum, threw himself between the groups of fighters and implored them in the name of Christ to desist. Telemachus fell, slain by the swords of the gladiators, but there never was another fight in the Coliseum. The spirit of the monk had its effect, and the above mentioned edict was soon passed.

Cruikshank's Fagin.
During the time Cruikshank was illustrating "Oliver Twist" he spent days traversing the east end of London in search of a face that would correspond with his conception of the character of Fagin. One day while standing before a mirror in his dining room "pulling faces at himself," so to speak, for the want of something better to do, he accidentally made the features for which he was looking. The picture, therefore, of Fagin is really that of Cruikshank himself.

Just Like Eggs.
Miss A.—So your wife keeps you continually in hot water, you poor man. Mr. B.—Oh, that's all right. We husbands are like eggs. Keep us in hot water and we become hardened.—Boston Transcript.

A Long Run.
Property Man—Did your company have a long run in Speedunk? Comedian—They chased us only two miles off.—Chicago News.

Her Ideal.
"What is your ideal man?"
"One who is clever enough to make money and foolish enough to spend it."—Variety Life.

Honesty needs no pains to set itself off.—Edward Moore.

This bit of humor, which is from the Hawaiian Star: "An amusing incident is related of a young service matron who had relinquished her husband for two years and who, having before his departure insisted on a good photograph, applied herself assiduously to the upbringing of her two-year-old baby with a view to the child's familiarity with her distant father. Each day she would call the baby girl to her and, kneeling beside her, would hold up the photograph, pointing out each feature to the child.

"One day the officer came home, and the baby girl, then four years old, was summoned. 'Come dear,' said her mother in glee, 'papa has come home at last!' The child surveyed the officer in perplexity and finally shook her head.

Humor of the Barometer.
It was a beautiful barometer. It glistened from its splendid wooden case with a spick and spanness that boasted of its newness. Its rich framework clearly advertised the large price that had been paid for it. Its owner was justly proud. But it possessed one drawback—it wouldn't work. Ever since it had been purchased it had remained at "set fair" whatever the weather had happened to be. And the weather had happened to be particularly wet. At last its owner grew weary of its external beauty and exasperated over its internal stupidity. One day when the rain was pouring extra hard he tore the weather indicator from the wall and took it out into the road.

For a moment the needle hesitated. Then as the raindrops began to dim the glass it made up its mind and moved slowly round to "very dry."—London Answers.

An Innocent Victim.
General F. D. Grant, at a dinner at West Point, once analyzed the military genius of Washington.

"Washington," he said, "gave us our independence by campaigning faultlessly. He never made mistakes. There have been more brilliant soldiers than Washington, but there has never been so sure a one. In warfare, you must know, the smallest mistake may lose a whole battle, a whole campaign, a whole cause. And that reminds me of poor Tom White."

"Tom White failed in business owing to the mistake of one single letter made by his stenographer. Tom's patron in business was a deaf millionaire who was very touchy about his deafness. This millionaire turned from a good friend to a bitter enemy—be foreclosed on Tom—because the unhappy fellow's stenographer accidentally began a letter to him 'Dear Sir.'"

A Gilded Gown.
During the reign of King George I. Lord Hervey, a cultured man, gave this description of the fine dress of a distinguished woman:

"The Duchess of Queensberry's clothes pleased me most. They were white satin embroidered, the bottom of the petticoat brown hills, covered with all sorts of weeds, and every breadth had an old stump of a tree than ran up almost to the top of the petticoat, broken and ragged and worked with brown chenille, round which twined nasturtiums, ivy, honeysuckles, periwinkles, convolvuluses and all sorts of twining vines, which spread and covered the petticoat. Many of the leaves were finished in gold, and part of the stumps of the trees looked like the gilding of the sun."

Grown Cautious.
Chatty Lodger (to landlord) — You seem to have seen a good deal. What are you? Landlord—Well, sir, I was a lion tamer, and I'd be there now if I hadn't a married; but, you see, my wife were a knife thrower in the same show, and she got to practicing her turn on me. Well, thinks I, life ain't too long to run no risks, so I took on a safe job and became a steeplejack.—London Punch.

A Word to Be Avoided.
Wife—Well, did you find out what it was I said that offended Mrs. Youngbride? Hub—Yes, her husband told me. It seems that you remarked, "I see you're installed in your new home," and as they've furnished on the installment plan she thought you were trying to be funny at their expense.—Boston Transcript.

Quite a Help.
"Is your boy Josh much of a help to you?"

"Yes," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "He is making a collection of insects. Of course he don't catch as many as he could if he wouldn't stop to label 'em, but, then, you know, every little helps."—Washington Star.

Anecdotes.
"What is an anecdote, pa?"
"An anecdote, my son, is a short and funny tale which at once reminds the other fellow of a tale which is neither short nor funny."—Puck.

A Choice of Words.
"You told me that horse as free from faults. Why, it's blind."
"Blind? Well, that's not a fault; that's a cruel misfortune."

He Heard Her.
"My daughter's piano lessons have been a great expense to me."
"That so? Did some neighbor sue you?"

If you live by nature you will never be poor; if by opinion, never rich.—Epictetus.

The Way of a Woman.
"She passed me on the street yesterday without speaking."

"She did?"

"Yes, she stuck up things."

"I wouldn't say that. Perhaps she didn't mean to snub you."

"Of course she meant to snub me. You see, I had on my old hat."

"That wouldn't make any difference to her."

"Oh, wouldn't it? Once before when I happened to have on an old dress she didn't speak to me either. Now I'm through with her. If she doesn't care enough for me to speak when I'm in my old clothes she needn't speak at all. I won't speak to her when I'm dressed up. That's all there is to it."

"Did you speak to her?"

"I should say not. It's her place to speak first. Do you suppose I'm going to attract attention by yelling my lungs out for the like of her? I guess not."

"Perhaps she didn't see you."

"See me? Of course she did. I saw her, didn't I? Then why didn't she see me?"—Detroit Free Press.

A Witty Reply.
On one occasion an important Great rehearsal at His Majesty's theater was prolonged until the small hours of the morning. The company grew very weary, particularly a gentleman who had been with Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree in a good many productions, but who had never attained to more than a very tiny part. When the time came to rehearse his few lines he was so tired that his voice was anything but distinct.
"What's the matter, Mr. Z?" asked Sir Herbert in his most sarcastic tones.
"Are you saving your voice for the rehearsal?"
"No, Sir Herbert," was the retort. "I've never been able to save anything under your management."
Sir Herbert, an exceedingly witty man himself, was so pleased with the retort that the salary of the small part man was raised.—London M. A. P.

Selling Papers on the Roof.
Not all enterprising newsboys are in the United States. The small street merchants of Paris, when forbidden to enter tramcars and omnibuses, got over the difficulty in real Yankee fashion. It was easy, of course, to sell papers through the windows to passengers seated in the vehicles, but how was it possible to reach would-be customers perched on the seats provided on the roof? A youth promptly solved the problem. He procured a stick seven or eight feet long, with wire clamps fastened to the sides. Papers were put in the clamps. On top of the stick there was a small cup with a hole in the bottom. The hole was up in the important part of the apparatus, for it reached all the way down, and through it came the copper coins of one or two sous, according to the price of the paper the patron selected when the boy held up the stick.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Never Again.
"Only once have I spoken crossly to my wife," said a man to an intimate friend.
"Indeed!" remarked the latter in some surprise.
"Yes," said the first speaker, rather ambiguously: "once was quite enough for me."—Exchange.

He Did.
One day Andrew Lang, the author, asked Israel Zangwill, the author, to give his services for a charity benefit.
Zangwill replied in a note: "If A. Lang will I. Zangwill."

A Sport For the Old.
In most sports youth possesses all the advantages. Experience is often a poor match for youth and agility, but the stripling has no advantage over skillful age in fishing.—Country Gentleman.

TONIGHT'S GAME THE LAST IN THE CHURCH LEAGUE

With tonight's struggle between the Baptists and the Catholics the church league season will end after one of the most successful seasons enjoyed during three years it has run. The Charleroi Church league is now attracting considerable attention, and copies of it are being formed in many towns. It is by far more successful than organized professional ball could be in towns much larger than Charleroi. It is largely owing to the excellent backing that the Church league has that enables it to be the success it is. The Executive board is composed of leaders. It consists of Dr. Edwin McKay, John Cornell, W. D. Pollock, R. A. Roberts, D. C. Whitlatch, Prof. I. T. Daniel, Dennis Oates, and Joseph W. Stech. Paul Ryland is the secretary.

The Lutherans and the Liggett A. C. of Monongahela will meet in conflict at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Prof. I. T. Daniel will have the batting and fielding averages of the two teams not yet published ready in a day or two. They are only for July. The entire season's averages will be ready later.

Alex Sutherland, the young pitcher who lives back of Coal Centre and who has been making such a phenomenal record for Washington in the A. and W. league has been told to report at Wheeling in the Central League. He will leave in a day or two.

The pennant race in the National League this year is more exciting than it has been for years.

DIGGER STANLEY WINS HARD FIGHT

At a Philadelphia club Thursday Digger Stanley of Charleroi defeated Johnny Willets, the lightweight, in the roughest six-round bout seen there for some time. In the final round Stanley twice put his man to the floor, the gong saving Willets from being knocked out.

Growth of Atlantic City.
Atlantic City was incorporated in 1854, the year when the first passenger train was run from the Delaware river to the Atlantic ocean. At that time the village consisted of half a dozen families which had increased to a population of 1,043, in 1870, according to the United States census. Ten years later it had grown to 5,477; in 1890 it was 12,955, and in 1900 there were 27,555 residents.

Big Shark on His Line.
An immense shark measuring 7 feet ten inches and weighing over 500 pounds, was caught by Fred Parker, a Redondo Beach (Cal.) fisherman, while trolling for barracuda several miles out from shore. Parker noticed the shark following his baiting line, for some time and threw out a line for it. The shark took the bait, and a battle lasting nearly two hours followed.

The Fatal Ring.
An amazing story is told by the late head of the Paris morgue. Five times within his experience dead bodies brought to the morgue were found to be wearing a certain ring, easily distinguishable by its strange design. It bore in Eastern characters this legend: "May whoever wears this ring die a miserable death." M. Macé, late chief of the Paris police, vouches for the truth of this.

The Sense of Smell.
"It is the upper part of the nose that smells," said a perfumer. "The lining there is very sensitive and brown in color, not red, as in the lower nose. Men are more sensitive to odors than women. Scientific tests have shown, I believe, that while many men can detect the smell of prussic acid even when there is only one part of the acid to two million parts of water, the average woman fails to detect the smell if there are less than ten parts of the acid. Though the white man is much less sensitive to odors than the savage, a prolonged stay in a part of the world where smells are few puts a very fine edge on the sense of smell. Dr. Nansen has declared that when returning from the ice world to Franz Josef Land he knew when he was approaching the assistant he had left there by smelling his scented soap long before he saw him. He could, too, when approaching the hut have given an inventory of the stores there, as he smelled everything it contained separately and distinctly."

Ruled His Servants by Fines.
Sir Richard Newdigate, a seventeenth century Warwickshire squire, whose papers were published some years ago by one of his descendants, ruled his servants by a system of fines. The value at which he rated domestic crimes is shown by such entries in his diary as: "Nan Newton, for breaking a teapot, 2s. 6d.; Richard Knight, for pride and slighting, 2s. 6d.; William Hetherington, for not being ready to go to church three Sundays, 18 pence; Thomas Birdall, for being at Nuneaton from morning till night, 5 shillings; cook, dead drunk, 10 shillings." As his cook's wages were only £3 a year she paid pretty dearly for her lapse from sobriety. Sir Richard had a system of rewards as well as penalties. "To my three daughters," he writes, "because they came to prayers, 3 shillings," and "to Tom Cooper, who worked hard after he broke his head, 2s. 6d."

Foxe's "Book of Martyrs" was published in March, 1652, as the "Actes and Monuments" of the martyrs, a title borrowed from an earlier book, says the London Chronicle. The famous volume might never have appeared at all but for the association of Foxe with the printer Day of Aldersgate street, in whose business Foxe took an active part. On the tombstone of Day in the church of Little Bradler, Suffolk, the partnership is thus immortalized:
He et a Fox to wright how martyrs runne
By death to lyfe; Fox ventured paynes
and health
To give them light: Daye spent in print
his wealth.

Even in those days the alien problem troubled industry, for we find Foxe appealing to Cecil to relax the law and permit his friend Day to engage more than four foreign printers.

Iron in Plants.
Iron is the substance which gives the green appearance to foliage. It forms a constituent part of chlorophyll and is the green coloring matter which stains the bodies inside the cells of leaves, called plastids. When the first organized food is being formed in the leaves from water and carbonic acid gas a certain amount of energy is required. This is obtained from the sun's rays, but the work of absorbing it is carried out by the chlorophyll. It requires very little iron for the production of all the chlorophyll found in a crop, and nearly all soils contain an abundant supply.

The Human Clock.
The Spanish painter Ribera, Mr. Hal-dane Macfall recalls in his "History of Painting," worked with such fervor that all count of time was lost to him. "He made a living clock to check the passing hours. His servant came every hour to the studio to say in a loud and stately voice, 'Another hour has gone, Signor Cavalier!'"

He Won.
"Before you kiss me, Horace, let me tell you that Fred has given Kitty a diamond ring. You have never given me one."
"Dearest, it is only girls who are not precious in themselves who require the aid of precious stones."
"Oh, you may kiss me twice, Horace."

Pen and Sword.
"Do you believe the pen is mightier than the sword?"
"Of course it is. Who ever had to pay $25,000 damages in a breach of promise case on account of the sword, he carried?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Rule of Life.
We should meet each morning as from foreign countries and, spending the day together, should depart at night as into foreign countries. In all things we should have the island of a man's parole.—Emerson.

The Irony of Fate.
"Speaking of the irony of fate"—
"Well?"
"I know an artist who earns money to pay his divorced wife alimony by drawing Cupids."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

One Was Enough.
Milton was one day asked by a friend whether he would instruct his daughters in the different languages.
"No, sir," he said; "one tongue is sufficient for any woman."

She Knew.
"But do you think I could deceive my own little wife?"
"No, I know you could not, but I believe you are silly enough to try."

A Great Difference.
In a spread-eagle speech on the immortality of the soul, an orator exclaimed: "I looked at the mountains, and could not help thinking, 'Beautiful as you are, you will some day be destroyed, while my soul will not.' Then I gazed upon the ocean, and cried out, 'Mighty as you are, you will some day dry up, but I never will!'"
